This file contains routines to read input images in Microsoft "BMP" format (MS Windows 3.x, OS/2 1.x, and OS/2 2.x flavors).
Currently, only 8-bit and 24-bit images are supported, not 1-bit or 4-bit (feeding such low-depth images into JPEG would be silly anyway).
Also, we don't support RLE-compressed files.

These routines may need modification for non-Unix environments or specialized applications. As they stand, they assume input from an ordinary stdio stream. They further assume that reading begins at the start of the file; start_input may need work if the user interface has already read some data (e.g., to determine that the file is indeed BMP format).

This file contains a command-line user interface for the JPEG decompressor. It should work on any system with Unix- or MS-DOS-style command lines.

Two different command line styles are permitted, depending on the compile-time switch TWO_FILE_COMMANDLINE

djpeg [options] inputfile outputfile
djpeg [options] [inputfile]

In the second style, output is always to standard output, which you'd normally redirect to a file or pipe to some other program. Input is either from a named file or from standard input (typically redirected). The second style is convenient on Unix but is unhelpful on systems that don't support pipes. Also, you MUST use the first style if your system doesn't do binary I/O to stdin/stdout.

To simplify script writing, the "-outfile" switch is provided. The syntax djpeg [options] -outfile outputfile inputfile works regardless of which command line style is used.

This file contains compression data destination routines for the case of emitting JPEG data to memory or to a file (or any stdio stream). This file contains code for merged upsampling/color conversion.

This file combines functions from jdsample.c and jdcolor.c;
read those files first to understand what's going on.

When the chroma components are to be upsampled by simple replication (ie, box filtering), we can save some work in color conversion by calculating all the output pixels corresponding to a pair of chroma
samples at one time. In the conversion equations

$$R = Y + K1 * Cr$$

$$G = Y + K2 * Cb + K3 * Cr$$

$$B = Y + K4 * Cb$$

only the Y term varies among the group of pixels corresponding to a pair of chroma samples, so the rest of the terms can be calculated just once.

At typical sampling ratios, this eliminates half or three-quarters of the multiplications needed for color conversion.

This file currently provides implementations for the following cases:

YCbCr => RGB color conversion only.

Sampling ratios of 2h1v or 2h2v.

No scaling needed at upsample time.

Corner-aligned (non-CCIR601) sampling alignment.

Other special cases could be added, but in most applications these are the only common cases. (For uncommon cases we fall back on the more general code in jdsample.c and jdcolor.c.)

This file contains the decompression postprocessing controller.

This controller manages the upsampling, color conversion, and color quantization/reduction steps; specifically, it controls the buffering between upsample/color conversion and color quantization/reduction.

If no color quantization/reduction is required, then this module has no work to do, and it just hands off to the upsample/color conversion code.

An integrated upsample/convert/quantize process would replace this module entirely.

This file contains upsampling routines.

Upsampling input data is counted in "row groups". A row group is defined to be $(v_samp_factor * DCT_scaled_size / min_DCT_scaled_size)$ sample rows of each component. Upsampling will normally produce $max_v_samp_factor$ pixel rows from each row group (but this could vary if the upsampler is applying a scale factor of its own).

An excellent reference for image resampling is

This file contains simple error-reporting and trace-message routines.

These are suitable for Unix-like systems and others where writing to stderr is the right thing to do. Many applications will want to replace some or all of these routines.

If you define USE_WINDOWS_MESSAGEBOX in jconfig.h or in the makefile, you get a Windows-specific hack to display error messages in a dialog box. It ain't much, but it beats dropping error messages into the bit bucket, which is what happens to output to stderr under most Windows C compilers.

These routines are used by both the compression and decompression code.

This file contains a floating-point implementation of the forward DCT (Discrete Cosine Transform).

This implementation should be more accurate than either of the integer DCT implementations. However, it may not give the same results on all machines because of differences in roundoff behavior. Speed will depend on the hardware's floating point capacity.

A 2-D DCT can be done by 1-D DCT on each row followed by 1-D DCT on each column. Direct algorithms are also available, but they are much more complex and seem not to be any faster when reduced to code.

This implementation is based on Arai, Agui, and Nakajima's algorithm for scaled DCT. Their original paper (Trans. IEICE E-71(11):1095) is in Japanese, but the algorithm is described in the Pennebaker & Mitchell JPEG textbook (see REFERENCES section in file README.ijg). The following code is based directly on figure 4-8 in P&M.

While an 8-point DCT cannot be done in less than 11 multiplies, it is possible to arrange the computation so that many of the multiplies are simple scalings of the final outputs. These multiplies can then be folded into the multiplications or divisions by the JPEG quantization table entries. The AA&N method leaves only 5 multiplies and 29 adds to be done in the DCT itself.

The primary disadvantage of this method is that with a fixed-point implementation, accuracy is lost due to imprecise representation of the scaled quantization values. However, that problem does not arise if we use floating point arithmetic.

A 2-D DCT can be done by 1-D DCT on each row followed by 1-D DCT on each column. Direct algorithms are also available, but they are much more complex and seem not to be any faster when reduced to code.

This implementation is based on Arai, Agui, and Nakajima's algorithm for scaled DCT. Their original paper (Trans. IEICE E-71(11):1095) is in Japanese, but the algorithm is described in the Pennebaker & Mitchell JPEG textbook (see REFERENCES section in file README.ijg). The following code is based directly on figure 4-8 in P&M.

While an 8-point DCT cannot be done in less than 11 multiplies, it is possible to arrange the computation so that many of the multiplies are simple scalings of the final outputs. These multiplies can then be folded into the multiplications or divisions by the JPEG quantization table entries. The AA&N method leaves only 5 multiplies and 29 adds to be done in the DCT itself.

The primary disadvantage of this method is that with fixed-point math, accuracy is lost due to imprecise representation of the scaled quantization values. The smaller the quantization table entry, the less precise the scaled value, so this implementation does worse with high-quality-setting files than with low-quality ones.

The advantage of this method is that no data path contains more than one multiplication; this allows a very simple and accurate implementation in scaled fixed-point arithmetic, with a minimal number of shifts.

This file contains a floating-point implementation of the inverse DCT (Discrete Cosine Transform). In the IJG code, this routine must also perform dequantization of the input coefficients.

This implementation should be more accurate than either of the integer IDCT implementations. However, it may not give the same results on all machines because of differences in roundoff behavior. Speed will depend on the hardware's floating point capacity.

A 2-D IDCT can be done by 1-D IDCT on each column followed by 1-D IDCT on each row (or vice versa, but it's more convenient to emit a row at a time). Direct algorithms are also available, but they are much more complex and seem not to be any faster when reduced to code.

We also provide IDCT routines with various output sample block sizes for direct resolution reduction or enlargement without additional resampling:

NxN (N=1...16) pixels for one 8x8 input DCT block.

For $N < 8$ we simply take the corresponding low-frequency coefficients of the 8x8 input DCT block and apply an NxN point IDCT on the sub-block to yield the downscaled outputs.

This can be seen as direct low-pass downsampling from the DCT domain point of view rather than the usual spatial domain point of view,

This file contains inverse-DCT routines that produce reduced-size output: either 4x4, 2x2, or 1x1 pixels from an 8x8 DCT block.

The implementation is based on the Loeffler, Ligtenberg and Moschytz (LL&M) algorithm used in jidctint.c. We simply replace each 8-to-8 1-D IDCT step with an 8-to-4 step that produces the four averages of two adjacent outputs (or an 8-to-2 step producing two averages of four outputs, for 2x2 output). These steps were derived by computing the corresponding values at the end of the normal LL&M code, then simplifying as much as possible.

1x1 is trivial: just take the DC coefficient divided by 8.

This file contains the JPEG system-independent memory management routines. This code is usable across a wide variety of machines; most of the system dependencies have been isolated in a separate file.

The major functions provided here are:

- * pool-based allocation and freeing of memory;
- * policy decisions about how to divide available memory among the virtual arrays;
- * control logic for swapping virtual arrays between main memory and backing storage.

The separate system-dependent file provides the actual backing-storage access code, and it contains the policy decision about how much total main memory to use.

This file is system-dependent in the sense that some of its functions are unnecessary in some systems. For example, if there is enough virtual memory so that backing storage will never be used, much of the virtual array control logic could be removed. (Of course, if you have that much memory then you shouldn't care about a little bit of unused code...)

This file provides a really simple implementation of the system-dependent portion of the JPEG memory manager. This implementation assumes that no backing-store files are needed: all required space can be obtained from malloc().

This is very portable in the sense that it'll compile on almost anything, but you'd better have lots of main memory (or virtual memory) if you want to process big images.

This file contains 2-pass color quantization (color mapping) routines. These routines provide selection of a custom color map for an image, followed by mapping of the image to that color map, with optional Floyd-Steinberg dithering. It is also possible to use just the second pass to map to an arbitrary externally-given color map.

Note: ordered dithering is not supported, since there isn't any fast way to compute intercolor distances; it's unclear that ordered dither's fundamental assumptions even hold with an irregularly spaced color map.

This file contains routines to read input images in Microsoft "BMP" format (MS Windows 3.x, OS/2 1.x, and OS/2 2.x flavors).
Currently, only 8-bit and 24-bit images are supported, not 1-bit or 4-bit (feeding such low-depth images into JPEG would be silly anyway).
Also, we don't support RLE-compressed files.

These routines may need modification for non-Unix environments or specialized applications. As they stand, they assume input from an ordinary stdio stream. They further assume that reading begins at the start of the file; start_input may need work if the user interface has already read some data (e.g., to determine that the file is indeed BMP format).

This file implements djpeg's "-map file" switch. It reads a source image and constructs a colormap to be supplied to the JPEG decompressor.

Currently, these file formats are supported for the map file:
GIF: the contents of the GIF's global colormap are used.
PPM (either text or raw flavor): the entire file is read and each unique pixel value is entered in the map.
Note that reading a large PPM file will be horrendously slow.
Typically, a PPM-format map file should contain just one pixel of each desired color. Such a file can be extracted from an ordinary image PPM file with ppmtomap(1).

Rescaling a PPM that has a maxval unequal to MAXJSAMPLE is not currently implemented.

Since numerous people will be contributing code and bug fixes, it's important to establish a common coding style. The goal of using similar coding styles is much more important than the details of just what that style is.

In general we follow the recommendations of "Recommended C Style and Coding

Brader). This document is available in the IJG FTP archive (see

This file describes how to use the IJG JPEG library within an application program. Read it if you want to write a program that uses the library.

The file `example.c` provides heavily commented skeleton code for calling the JPEG library. Also see `jpeglib.h` (the include file to be used by application programs) for full details about data structures and function parameter lists. The library source code, of course, is the ultimate reference.

Note that there have been major changes from the application interface presented by IJG version 4 and earlier versions. The old design had several inherent limitations, and it had accumulated a lot of cruft as we added features while trying to minimize application-interface changes. We have sacrificed backward compatibility in the version 5 rewrite, but we think the improvements justify this.

This file provides an overview of the architecture of the IJG JPEG software; that is, the functions of the various modules in the system and the interfaces between modules. For more precise details about any data structure or calling convention, see the include files and comments in the source code.

We assume that the reader is already somewhat familiar with the JPEG standard. The README.ijg file includes references for learning about JPEG. The file libjpeg.txt describes the library from the viewpoint of an application programmer using the library; it's best to read that file before this one. Also, the file coderules.txt describes the coding style conventions we use.

In this document, JPEG-specific terminology follows the JPEG standard:

- A "component" means a color channel, e.g., Red or Luminance.

- A "sample" is a single component value (i.e., one number in the image data).

- A "coefficient" is a frequency coefficient (a DCT transform output number).

- A "block" is an 8x8 group of samples or coefficients.

- An "MCU" (minimum coded unit) is an interleaved set of blocks of size determined by the sampling factors, or a single block in a noninterleaved scan.

We do not use the terms "pixel" and "sample" interchangeably. When we say pixel, we mean an element of the full-size image, while a sample is an element of the downsampled image. Thus the number of samples may vary across components while the number of pixels does not. (This terminology is not used rigorously throughout the code, but it is used in places where confusion would otherwise result.)

This include file contains common declarations for the forward and inverse DCT modules. These declarations are private to the DCT managers (jcdctmgr.c, jddctmgr.c) and the individual DCT algorithms. The individual DCT algorithms are kept in separate files to ease machine-dependent tuning (e.g., assembly coding).

Copyright (C) 2010-2011, 2015-2016, D. R. Commander.

For conditions of distribution and use, see the accompanying README.ijg file.

This file contains declarations for Huffman entropy decoding routines that are shared between the sequential decoder (jdhuff.c) and the progressive decoder (jdphuff.c). No other modules need to see these.

For conditions of distribution and use, see the accompanying README.ijg file.

This file contains the master control structure for the JPEG decompressor.

For conditions of distribution and use, see the accompanying README.iyg file.

This file defines the error and message codes for the JPEG library.
Edit this file to add new codes, or to translate the message strings to some other language.

A set of error-reporting macros are defined too. Some applications using the JPEG library may wish to include this file to get the error codes and/or the macros.

Copyright (C) 1991-1994, Thomas G. Lane.
It was modified by The libjpeg-turbo Project to include only code relevant to libjpeg-turbo.
For conditions of distribution and use, see the accompanying README.iyg file.

This file exists to provide a single place to fix any problems with including the wrong system include files. (Common problems are taken care of by the standard jconfig symbols, but on really weird systems you may have to edit this file.)

NOTE: this file is NOT intended to be included by applications using the JPEG library. Most applications need only include jpeglib.h.

Copyright (C) 1992-1997, Thomas G. Lane.
It was modified by The libjpeg-turbo Project to include only code and information relevant to libjpeg-turbo.
For conditions of distribution and use, see the accompanying README.iyg file.

This include file defines the interface between the system-independent and system-dependent portions of the JPEG memory manager. No other modules need include it. (The system-independent portion is jmemmgr.c; there are several different versions of the system-dependent portion.)

This file works as-is for the system-dependent memory managers supplied in the IJG distribution. You may need to modify it if you write a custom memory manager. If system-dependent changes are needed in this file, the best method is to #ifdef them based on a configuration symbol supplied in jconfig.h.

This file contains additional configuration options that customize the JPEG software for special applications or support machine-dependent optimizations. Most users will not need to touch this file.

fsck --- A generic, parallelizing front-end for the fsck program.
It will automatically try to run fsck programs in parallel if the devices are on separate spindles. It is based on the same ideas as the generic front end for fsck by David Engel and Fred van Kempen, but it has been completely rewritten from scratch to support
parallel execution.

Written by Theodore Ts'o, <tytso@mit.edu>

Miquel van Smoorenburg (miquels@drinkel.ow.org) 20-Oct-1994:

- o Changed -t fstype to behave like with mount when -A (all file systems) or -M (like mount) is specified.
- o fsck looks if it can find the fsck.type program to decide if it should ignore the fs type. This way more fsck programs can be added without changing this front-end.
- o -R flag skip root file system.

COPYRIGHT (C) 1986 Gary S. Brown. You may use this program, or code or tables extracted from it, as desired without restriction.

First, the polynomial itself and its table of feedback terms. The polynomial is
 $X^{32} + X^{26} + X^{23} + X^{22} + X^{16} + X^{12} + X^{11} + X^{10} + X^8 + X^7 + X^5 + X^4 + X^2 + X^1 + X^0$

Note that we take it "backwards" and put the highest-order term in the lowest-order bit. The X^{32} term is "implied"; the LSB is the X^{31} term, etc. The X^0 term (usually shown as "+1") results in the MSB being 1.

Note that the usual hardware shift register implementation, which is what we're using (we're merely optimizing it by doing eight-bit chunks at a time) shifts bits into the lowest-order term. In our implementation, that means shifting towards the right. Why do we do it this way? Because the calculated CRC must be transmitted in order from highest-order term to lowest-order term. UARTs transmit characters in order from LSB to MSB. By storing the CRC this way, we hand it to the UART in the order low-byte to high-byte; the UART sends each low-bit to high-bit; and the result is transmission bit by bit from highest- to lowest-order term without requiring any bit shuffling on our part. Reception works similarly.

The feedback terms table consists of 256, 32-bit entries. Notes

The table can be generated at runtime if desired; code to do so is shown later. It might not be obvious, but the feedback terms simply represent the results of eight shift/xor operations for all combinations of data and CRC register values.

The values must be right-shifted by eight bits by the "updcrc" logic; the shift must be unsigned (bring in zeroes). On some hardware you could probably optimize the shift in assembler by using byte-swap instructions.

-- based on mount/losetup.c

Simple library for work with loop devices.

- requires kernel 2.6.x
- reads info from /sys/block/loop<N>/loop/<attr> (new kernels)
- reads info by ioctl
- supports unlimited number of loop devices
- supports /dev/loop<N> as well as /dev/loop/<N>
- minimize overhead (fd, loopinfo, ... are shared for all operations)
- setup (associate device and backing file)
- delete (dis-associate file)
- old LOOP_{SET,GET}_STATUS (32bit) ioctls are unsupported
- extendible

Functions for %oct encoding used in mtab/fstab/swaps/etc.

This code implements the MD5 message-digest algorithm.
The algorithm is due to Ron Rivest. This code was written by Colin Plumb in 1993, no copyright is claimed.
This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc.
This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent,
except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese
with every copy.

To compute the message digest of a chunk of bytes, declare an MD5Context structure, pass it to MD5Init, call MD5Update as needed on buffers full of bytes, and then call MD5Final, which will fill a supplied 16-byte array with the digest.

GPLV3('parse-date.c',)

Simple functions to access files. Paths can be globally prefixed to read data from an alternative source (e.g. a /proc dump for regression tests).

The paths is possible to format by printf-like way for functions with "f" postfix in the name (e.g. readf, openf, ... ul_path_readf_u64()).

The ul_path_read_* API is possible to use without path_cxt handler. In this case is not possible to use global prefix and printf-like formatting.

No copyright is claimed. This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

DRBD is a blocklevel replication solution in the Linux kernel, upstream since 2.6.33. (See <http://drbd.linbit.com/>)
DRBDmanage is a configuration frontend that assists in creating/deleting/modifying DRBD resources across multiple machines (a DRBDmanage "cluster"); this file detects its control volume, which is replicated (via DRBD 9) on some of the nodes.

Libfdisk sample to create partitions by specify all required partition properties (partno, start and size). The defaults is only partition type (except MBR where 4th partition is extended).

Libfdisk sample to create partitions by specify size, for example:

mkpart --label dos --device /dev/sdc 2M 2M 2M 10M 1M -

creates 6 partitions:

- 3 primary (3x 2M)
- 1 extended (1x 10M)
- 2 logical (1x 1M, 1x remaining-space-in-extended-partition)

Notes:

The sample specifies size and partno for MBR, and size only for another labels (e.g. GPT).

The Ask-API does not use anything else than warning/info. The partitioning has to be done non-interactive.

The test heavily uses shared memory, to enlarge maximal size of shared segment use:

```
echo "4294967295" > /proc/sys/kernel/shmm

The test is compiled against in-tree libuuid, if you want to test uuid installed to the system then make sure that libuuid uses the same socket like the running uuid. You can start the uuid manually, for example:

```
uuid --debug --no-fork --no-pid --socket /run/uuid/request

if the $runstatedir (as defined by build-system) is /run. If you want to overwrite the built-in default then use:

```
make uuid uuidgen runstatedir=/var/run
```

Converted to terminfo by Kars de Jong (jongk@cs.utwente.nl)

1999-02-22 Arkadiusz MiÅkiewicz <misiek@pld.ORG.PL>
- added Native Language Support

Semantics:

Setterm writes to standard output a character string that will invoke the specified terminal capabilities. Where possible terminfo is consulted to find the string to use. Some options however do not correspond to a terminfo capability. In this case if the terminal type is "con*" or "linux*" the string that invokes the specified capabilities on the PC Linux virtual console driver is output. Options that are not implemented by the terminal are ignored.

The following options are non-obvious.

- term can be used to override the TERM environment variable.
- reset displays the terminal reset string, which typically resets the terminal to its power on state.

Additional IP Rights Grant (Patents)

These implementations means the copyrightable works that implement the WebM codecs distributed by Google as part of the WebM Project.

Google hereby grants to you a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable (except as stated in this section) patent license to make, have made, use, offer to sell, sell, import, transfer, and otherwise run, modify and propagate the contents of these implementations of WebM, where such license applies only to those patent claims, both currently owned by Google and acquired in the future, licensable by Google that are necessarily infringed by these implementations of WebM. This grant does not include claims that would be infringed only as a consequence of further modification of these implementations. If you or your agent or exclusive licensee institute or order or agree to the institution of patent litigation or any other patent enforcement activity against any entity (including a cross-claim or counterclaim in a lawsuit) alleging that any of these implementations of WebM or any code incorporated within any of these implementations of WebM constitute direct or contributory patent infringement, or inducement of patent infringement, then any patent rights granted to you under this License for these implementations of WebM shall terminate as of the date such litigation is filed.

The following is the 'standard copyright' agreed upon by most contributors, and is currently the canonical license preferred by the X.Org Foundation. This is a slight variant of the common MIT license form published by the Open Source Initiative at <http://www.opensource.org/licenses/mit-license.php>

Copyright holders of new code should use this license statement where possible, and insert their name to this list. Please sort by surname for people, and by the full name for other entities (e.g. Juliusz Chroboczek sorts before Intel Corporation sorts before Daniel Stone).

See each individual source file or directory for the license that applies to that file.

The following is the 'standard copyright' agreed upon by most contributors, and is currently the canonical license preferred by the X.Org Foundation. This is a slight variant of the common MIT license form published by the Open Source Initiative at <http://www.opensource.org/licenses/mit-license.php>

Copyright holders of new code should use this license statement where possible, and insert their name to this list. Please sort by surname for people, and by the full name for other entities (e.g. Juliusz Chroboczek sorts before Intel Corporation sorts before Daniel Stone).

See each individual source file or directory for the license that applies to that file.

The following is the 'standard copyright' agreed upon by most contributors, and is currently the canonical license preferred by the X.Org Foundation. This is a slight variant of the common MIT license form published by the Open Source Initiative at <http://www.opensource.org/licenses/mit-license.php>

Copyright holders of new code should use this license statement where possible, and insert their name to this list. Please sort by surname for people, and by the full name for other entities (e.g. Juliusz Chroboczek sorts before Intel Corporation sorts before Daniel Stone).

See each individual source file or directory for the license that applies to that file.

This is a header file for the x264ASM assembly language, which uses NASM/YASM syntax combined with a large number of macros to provide easy abstraction between different calling conventions (x86_32, win64, linux64). It also has various other useful features to simplify writing the kind of DSP functions that are most often used in x264.

Unlike the rest of x264, this file is available under an ISC license, as it has significant usefulness outside of x264 and we want it to be available to the largest audience possible. Of course, if you modify it for your own purposes to add a new feature, we strongly encourage contributing a patch as this feature might be useful for others as well. Send patches or ideas to x264-devel@videolan.org .

Simple script to generate a deb package for a Linux kernel. All the complexity of what to do with a kernel after it is installed or removed is left to other scripts and packages: they can install scripts in the /etc/kernel/{pre,post}{inst,rm}.d/ directories (or an alternative location specified in KDEB_HOOKDIR) that will be called on package install and removal.

A lot of this driver was directly stolen from Erik H. Moe's PCI Qlogic ISP driver. Mucho kudos to him for this code.

An even bigger kudos to John Grana at Performance Technologies for providing me with the hardware to write this driver, you rule

John you really do.

This driver adds support for UART devices via Freescale's QUICC Engine found on some Freescale SOC's.

If Soft-UART support is needed but not already present, then this driver will request and upload the Soft-UART microcode upon probe. The filename of the microcode should be fsl_qe_uct_uart_X_YZ.bin, where X is the name of the SOC (e.g. 8323), and YZ is the revision of the SOC, (e.g. 11 for 1.1).

The USB isight cameras in recent Apples are roughly compatible with the USB video class specification, and can be driven by uvcvideo. However, they need firmware to be loaded beforehand. After firmware loading, the device detaches from the USB bus and reattaches with a new device ID. It can then be claimed by the uvc driver.

Generic filesystem journal-writing code; part of the ext2fs journaling system.

This file manages journals: areas of disk reserved for logging transactional updates. This includes the kernel journaling thread which is responsible for scheduling updates to the log.

We do not actually manage the physical storage of the journal in this file: that is left to a per-journal policy function, which allows us to store the journal within a filesystem-specified area for ext2 journaling (ext2 can use a reserved inode for storing the log).

this code maps all the lock dependencies as they occur in a live kernel and will warn about the following classes of locking bugs:

- lock inversion scenarios
- circular lock dependencies
- hardirq/softirq safe/unsafe locking bugs

Bugs are reported even if the current locking scenario does not cause any deadlock at this point.

I.e. if anytime in the past two locks were taken in a different order, even if it happened for another task, even if those were different locks (but of the same class as this lock), this code will detect it.

Thanks to Arjan van de Ven for coming up with the initial idea of mapping lock dependencies runtime.

ARMv6 has 2 configurable performance counters and a single cycle counter. They all share a single reset bit but can be written to zero so we can use that for a reset.

The counters can't be individually enabled or disabled so when we remove one event and replace it with another we could get spurious counts from the wrong event. However, we can take advantage of the fact that the performance counters can export events to the event bus, and the event bus itself can be monitored. This requires that we don't export the events to the event bus. The procedure for disabling a configurable counter is:

- change the counter to count the ETMEXTOUT[0] signal (0x20). This effectively stops the counter from counting.
- disable the counter's interrupt generation (each counter has it's own interrupt enable bit).

Once stopped, the counter value can be written as 0 to reset.

To enable a counter:

- enable the counter's interrupt generation.

#NAME?

Note: the dedicated cycle counter only counts cycles and can't be enabled/disabled independently of the others. When we want to disable the cycle counter, we have to just disable the interrupt reporting and start ignoring that counter. When re-enabling, we have to reset the value and enable the interrupt.

Based on the previous xscale OProfile code.

There are two variants of the xscale PMU that we support:

- xscale1pmu: 2 event counters and a cycle counter
- xscale2pmu: 4 event counters and a cycle counter

The two variants share event definitions, but have different PMU structures.

Perform ISA memory and IO accesses. The EBSA110 has some peculiarities in the way it handles accesses to odd IO ports on 16-bit devices. These devices have their D0-D15 lines connected to the processors D0-D15 lines.
Since they expect all byte IO operations to be performed on D0-D7, and the StrongARM expects to transfer the byte to these odd addresses on D8-D15, we must use a trick to get the required behaviour.

The trick employed here is to use long word stores to odd address -1. The glue logic picks this up as a trick access, and asserts the LSB of the peripherals address bus, thereby accessing the odd IO port. Meanwhile, the StrongARM transfers its data on D0-D7 as expected.

Things get more interesting on the pass-1 EBSA110 - the PCMCIA controller wiring was screwed in such a way that it had limited memory space access.

Luckily, the work-around for this is not too horrible. See

This file contains clockdomains and clockdomain wakeup dependencies for OMAP2420 chips. Some notes:

A useful validation rule for struct clockdomain: Any clockdomain referenced by a wkdep_srcs must have a dep_bit assigned. So wkdep_srcs are really just software-controllable dependencies.
Non-software-controllable dependencies do exist, but they are not encoded below (yet).

24xx does not support programmable sleep dependencies (SLEEPDEP)

The overly-specific dep_bit names are due to a bit name collision with CM_FCLKEN_{DSP,IVA2}. The DSP/IVA2 PM_WKDEP and CM_SLEEPDEP shift value are the same for all powerdomains: 2

XXX should dep_bit be a mask, so we can test to see if it is 0 as a sanity check?
XXX encode hardware fixed wakeup dependencies -- esp. for 3430 CORE

Hacked for ARM by Phil Blundell <philb@gnu.org>
Hacked to allow all architectures to build, and various cleanups
by Russell King

This allows a driver to remap an arbitrary region of bus memory into virtual space. One should only use readl, writel, memcpy_toio and so on with such remapped areas.

Because the ARM only has a 32-bit address space we can't address the whole of the (physical) PCI space at once. PCI huge-mode addressing allows us to circumvent this restriction by splitting PCI space into two 2GB chunks and mapping only one at a time into processor memory. We use MMU protection domains to trap any attempt to access the bank that is not currently mapped. (This isn't fully implemented yet.)

This is a pseudo I/O MMU which dispatches to the hardware I/O MMU whenever possible. We assume that the hardware I/O MMU requires full 32-bit addressability, as is the case, e.g., for HP zx1-based systems (there, the I/O MMU window is mapped at 3-4GB). If a device doesn't provide full 32-bit addressability, we fall back on the sw I/O TLB. This is good enough to let us support broken hardware such as soundcards which have a DMA engine that can address only 28 bits.

This previously copyrighted work has been placed into the public domain by the author and may be freely used for any purpose, private or commercial.

Because of the number of inquiries I was receiving about the use of this product in commercially developed works I have decided to simply make it public domain to further its unrestricted use. I specifically would be most happy to see this material become a part of the standard Unix distributions by AT&T and the Berkeley Computer Science Research Group, and a standard part of the GNU system from the Free Software Foundation.

I would appreciate it, as a courtesy, if this notice is left in all copies and derivative works. Thank you.

The author makes no warranty of any kind with respect to this product and explicitly disclaims any implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for any particular purpose.

QuickLZ can be used for free under the GPL 1, 2 or 3 license (where anything released into public must be open source) or under a commercial license if such has been acquired (see <http://www.quicklz.com/order.html>). The commercial license does not cover derived or ported versions created by third parties under GPL.

You can edit following user settings. Data must be decompressed with the same setting of QLZ_COMPRESSION_LEVEL and QLZ_STREAMING_BUFFER as it was compressed (see manual). If QLZ_STREAMING_BUFFER > 0, scratch buffers must be initially zeroed out (see manual). First ifndef makes it possible to define settings from the outside like the compiler command line.

Thanks to Rodney Brown <rbrown64@csc.com.au> for his contribution of faster CRC methods: exclusive-oring 32 bits of data at a time, and pre-computing tables for updating the shift register in one step with three exclusive-ors instead of four steps with four exclusive-ors. This results in about a factor of two increase in speed on a Power PC G4 (PPC7455) using gcc -O3.

crypt.c (full version) by Info-ZIP. Last revised: [see crypt.h]

The encryption/decryption parts of this source code (as opposed to the non-echoing password parts) were originally written in Europe. The whole source package can be freely distributed, including from the USA. (Prior to January 2000, re-export from the US was a violation of US law.)

This encryption code is a direct transcription of the algorithm from Roger Schlafly, described by Phil Katz in the file appnote.txt. This file (appnote.txt) is distributed with the PKZIP program (even in the version without encryption capabilities).

Thanks to Rodney Brown <rbrown64@csc.com.au> for his contribution of faster CRC methods: exclusive-oring 32 bits of data at a time, and pre-computing tables for updating the shift register in one step with three exclusive-ors instead of four steps with four exclusive-ors. This results in about a factor of two increase in speed on a Power PC G4 (PPC7455) using gcc -O3.

The Open Query GRAPH engine (OQGRAPH) is a computation engine allowing hierarchies and more complex graph structures to be handled in a relational fashion. In a nutshell, tree structures and friend-of-a-friend style searches can now be done using standard SQL syntax, and results joined onto other tables.

Based on a concept by Arjen Lentz fsck --- A generic, parallelizing front-end for the fsck program. It will automatically try to run fsck programs in parallel if the devices are on separate spindles. It is based on the same ideas as the generic front end for fsck by David Engel and Fred van Kempen, but it has been completely rewritten from scratch to support parallel execution.

Written by Theodore Ts'o, <tytso@mit.edu>

Miquel van Smoorenburg (miquels@drinkel.ow.org) 20-Oct-1994:

- o Changed -t fstype to behave like with mount when -A (all file systems) or -M (like mount) is specified.
- o fsck looks if it can find the fsck.type program to decide if it should ignore the fs type. This way more fsck programs can be added without changing this front-end.
- o -R flag skip root file system.

cpumask - string with hex mask (e.g. 0x00000001)

COPYRIGHT (C) 1986 Gary S. Brown. You may use this program, or code or tables extracted from it, as desired without restriction.

First, the polynomial itself and its table of feedback terms. The polynomial is
$$X^{32} + X^{26} + X^{23} + X^{22} + X^{16} + X^{12} + X^{11} + X^{10} + X^8 + X^7 + X^5 + X^4 + X^2 + X^1 + X^0$$

Note that we take it backwards and put the highest-order term in the lowest-order bit. The X^{32} term is implied; the LSB is the X^{31} term, etc. The X^0 term (usually shown as +1) results in the MSB being 1.

Note that the usual hardware shift register implementation, which is what we're using (we're merely optimizing it by doing eight-bit chunks at a time) shifts bits into the lowest-order term. In our implementation, that means shifting towards the right. Why do we do it this way? Because the calculated CRC must be transmitted in order from highest-order term to lowest-order term. UARTs transmit characters in order from LSB to MSB. By storing the CRC this way, we hand it to the UART in the order low-byte to high-byte; the UART sends each low-bit to high-bit; and the result is transmission bit by bit from highest- to lowest-order term without requiring any bit shuffling on our part. Reception works similarly.

The feedback terms table consists of 256, 32-bit entries. Notes

The table can be generated at runtime if desired; code to do so is shown later. It might not be obvious, but the feedback terms simply represent the results of eight shift/xor operations for all combinations of data and CRC register values.

The values must be right-shifted by eight bits by the updcrc logic; the shift must be unsigned (bring in zeroes). On some hardware you could probably optimize the shift in assembler by using byte-swap instructions.

-- based on mount/losetup.c

Simple library for work with loop devices.

- requires kernel 2.6.x
- reads info from /sys/block/loop<N>/loop/<attr> (new kernels)

- reads info by ioctl
- supports unlimited number of loop devices
- supports /dev/loop<N> as well as /dev/loop/<N>
- minimize overhead (fd, loopinfo, ... are shared for all operations)
- setup (associate device and backing file)
- delete (dis-associate file)
- old LOOP_{SET,GET}_STATUS (32bit) ioctls are unsupported
- extendible

Functions for ioctl encoding used in mtab/fstab/swaps/etc.

This code implements the MD5 message-digest algorithm.
The algorithm is due to Ron Rivest. This code was written by Colin Plumb in 1993, no copyright is claimed.
This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc.
This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent,
except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese
with every copy.

To compute the message digest of a chunk of bytes, declare an MD5Context structure, pass it to MD5Init, call MD5Update as needed on buffers full of bytes, and then call MD5Final, which will fill a supplied 16-byte array with the digest.

GPLV3('parse-date.c',)

Simple functions to access files. Paths can be globally prefixed to read data from an alternative source (e.g. a /proc dump for regression tests).

The paths is possible to format by printf-like way for functions with f postfix in the name (e.g. readf, openf, ... ul_path_readf_u64()).

The ul_path_read_* API is possible to use without path_ext handler. In this case is not possible to use global prefix and printf-like formatting.

No copyright is claimed. This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

Libfdisk sample to create partitions by specify all required partition properties (partno, start and size). The defaults is only partition type (except MBR where 4th partition is extended).

Libfdisk sample to create partitions by specify size, for example:

mkpart --label dos --device /dev/sdc 2M 2M 2M 10M 1M -

creates 6 partitions:

- 3 primary (3x 2M)
- 1 extended (1x 10M)
- 2 logical (1x 1M, 1x remaining-space-in-extended-partition)

Notes:

The sample specifies size and partno for MBR, and size only for another
labels (e.g. GPT).

The Ask-API does not use anything else than warning/info. The partitionning has to be done non-interactive.

The test heavily uses shared memory, to enlarge maximal size of shared segment use:

echo 4294967295 > /proc/sys/kernel/shmm
```

The test is compiled against in-tree libuuid, if you want to test uuid installed to the system then make sure that libuuid uses the same socket like the running uuid. You can start the uuid manually, for example:

uuid --debug --no-fork --no-pid --socket /run/uuid/request

if the $runstatedir (as defined by build-system) is /run. If you want to overwrite the built-in default then use:

make uuid uuidgen runstatedir=/var/run

Semantics:

Setterm writes to standard output a character string that will invoke the specified terminal capabilities. Where possible terminfo is consulted to find the string to use. Some options however do not correspond to a terminfo capability. In this case if the terminal type is con*, or linux* the string that invokes the specified capabilities on the PC Linux virtual console driver is output. Options that are not implemented by the terminal are ignored.

The following options are non-obvious.

-term can be used to override the TERM environment variable.

-reset displays the terminal reset string, which typically resets the terminal to its power on state.

0. PREAMBLE

The purpose of this License is to make a manual, textbook, or other functional and useful document free in the sense of freedom: to assure everyone the effective freedom to copy and redistribute it, with or without modifying it, either commercially or noncommercially. Secondly, this License preserves for the author and publisher a way to get credit for their work, while not being considered responsible for modifications made by others.

This License is a kind of copyleft, which means that derivative works of the document must themselves be free in the same sense. It complements the GNU General Public License, which is a copyleft license designed for free software.

We have designed this License in order to use it for manuals for free software, because free software needs free documentation: a free program should come with manuals providing the same freedoms that the software does. But this License is not limited to software manuals; it can be used for any textual work, regardless of subject matter or whether it is published as a printed book. We recommend this License principally for works whose purpose is instruction or reference.

1. APPLICABILITY AND DEFINITIONS

This License applies to any manual or other work, in any medium, that contains a notice placed by the copyright holder saying it can be distributed under the terms of this License. Such a notice grants a world-wide, royalty-free license, unlimited in duration, to use that work under the conditions stated herein. The Document, below, refers to any such manual or work. Any member of the public is a licensee, and is addressed as you. You accept the license if you copy, modify or distribute the work in a way requiring permission under copyright law.

A Modified Version of the Document means any work containing the Document or a portion of it, either copied verbatim, or with modifications and/or translated into another language.

A Secondary Section is a named appendix or a front-matter section of the Document that deals exclusively with the relationship of the publishers or authors of the Document to the Document's overall subject (or to related matters) and contains nothing that could fall directly within that overall subject. (Thus, if the Document is in part a textbook of mathematics, a Secondary Section may not explain any mathematics.) The relationship could be a matter of historical connection with the subject or with related matters, or of legal, commercial, philosophical, ethical or political position regarding them.

The Invariant Sections are certain Secondary Sections whose titles are designated, as being those of Invariant Sections, in the notice that says that the Document is released under this License. If a section does not fit the above definition of Secondary then it is not allowed to be designated as Invariant. The Document may contain zero Invariant Sections. If the Document does not identify any Invariant Sections then there are none.

The Cover Texts are certain short passages of text that are listed, as Front-Cover Texts or Back-Cover Texts, in the notice that says that the Document is released under this License. A Front-Cover Text may be at most 5 words, and a Back-Cover Text may be at most 25 words.

A Transparent copy of the Document means a machine-readable copy, represented in a format whose specification is available to the general public, that is suitable for revising the document straightforwardly with generic text editors or (for images composed of pixels) generic paint programs or (for drawings) some widely available drawing editor, and that is suitable for input to text formatters or for automatic translation to a variety of formats suitable for input to text formatters. A copy made in an otherwise Transparent file format whose markup, or absence of markup, has been arranged to thwart or discourage subsequent modification by readers is not Transparent. An image format is not Transparent if used for any substantial amount of text. A copy that is not Transparent is called Opaque.

Examples of suitable formats for Transparent copies include plain ASCII without markup, Texinfo input format, LaTeX input format, SGML or XML using a publicly available DTD, and standard-conforming simple HTML, PostScript or PDF designed for human modification. Examples of transparent image formats include PNG, XCF and JPG. Opaque formats include proprietary formats that can be read and edited only by proprietary word processors, SGML or XML for which the DTD and/or processing tools are not generally available, and the machine-generated HTML, PostScript or PDF produced by some word processors for output purposes only.

The Title Page means, for a printed book, the title page itself, plus such following pages as are needed to hold, legibly, the material this License requires to appear in the title page. For works in formats which do not have any title page as such, Title Page means the text near the most prominent appearance of the work's title, preceding the beginning of the body of the text.

A section Entitled XYZ means a named subunit of the Document whose title either is precisely XYZ or contains XYZ in parentheses following text that translates XYZ in another language. (Here XYZ stands for a specific section name mentioned below, such as Acknowledgements, Dedications, Endorsements, or History.) To Preserve the Title of such a section when you modify the Document means that it remains a section Entitled XYZ according to this definition.

The Document may include Warranty Disclaimers next to the notice which states that this License applies to the Document. These Warranty Disclaimers are considered to be included by reference in this License, but only as regards disclaiming warranties: any other implication that these Warranty Disclaimers may have is void and has no effect on the meaning of this License.

2. VERBATIM COPYING

You may copy and distribute the Document in any medium, either commercially or noncommercially, provided that this License, the copyright notices, and the license notice saying this License applies to the Document are reproduced in all copies, and that you add no other conditions whatsoever to those of this License. You may not use technical measures to obstruct or control the reading or further copying of the copies you make or distribute. However, you may accept compensation in exchange for copies. If you distribute a large enough number of copies you must also follow the conditions in section 3.

You may also lend copies, under the same conditions stated above, and you may publicly display copies.

3. COPYING IN QUANTITY

If you publish printed copies (or copies in media that commonly have printed covers) of the Document, numbering more than 100, and the Document's license notice requires Cover Texts, you must enclose the copies in covers that carry, clearly and legibly, all these Cover Texts: Front-Cover Texts on the front cover, and Back-Cover Texts on the back cover. Both covers must also clearly and legibly identify you as the publisher of these copies. The front cover must present the full title with all words of the title equally prominent and visible. You may add other material on the covers in addition. Copying with changes limited to the covers, as long as they preserve the title of the Document and satisfy these conditions, can be treated as verbatim copying in other respects.

If the required texts for either cover are too voluminous to fit legibly, you should put the first ones listed (as many as fit reasonably) on the actual cover, and continue the rest onto adjacent pages.

If you publish or distribute Opaque copies of the Document numbering more than 100, you must either include a machine-readable Transparent copy along with each Opaque copy, or state in or with each Opaque copy a computer-network location from which the general network-using public has access to download using public-standard network protocols a complete Transparent copy of the Document, free of added material. If you use the latter option, you must take reasonably prudent steps, when you begin distribution of Opaque copies in quantity, to ensure that this Transparent copy will remain thus accessible at the stated location until at least one year after the last time you distribute an Opaque copy (directly or through your agents or retailers) of that edition to the public.

It is requested, but not required, that you contact the authors of the Document well before redistributing any large number of copies, to give them a chance to provide you with an updated version of the Document.

4. MODIFICATIONS

You may copy and distribute a Modified Version of the Document under the conditions of sections 2 and 3 above, provided that you release the Modified Version under precisely this License, with the Modified Version filling the role of the Document, thus licensing distribution and modification of the Modified Version to whoever possesses a copy of it. In addition, you must do these things in the Modified Version:

- A. Use in the Title Page (and on the covers, if any) a title distinct from that of the Document, and from those of previous versions (which should, if there were any, be listed in the History section of the Document). You may use the same title as a previous version if the original publisher of that version gives permission.
- B. List on the Title Page, as authors, one or more persons or entities responsible for authorship of the modifications in the Modified Version, together with at least five of the principal authors of the Document (all of its principal authors, if it has fewer than five), unless they release you from this requirement.
- C. State on the Title page the name of the publisher of the Modified Version, as the publisher.
- D. Preserve all the copyright notices of the Document.
- E. Add an appropriate copyright notice for your modifications adjacent to the other copyright notices.
- F. Include, immediately after the copyright notices, a license notice giving the public permission to use the Modified Version under the terms of this License, in the form shown in the Addendum below.
- G. Preserve in that license notice the full lists of Invariant Sections and required Cover Texts given in the Document's license notice.
- H. Include an unaltered copy of this License.
- I. Preserve the section Entitled History, Preserve its Title, and add to it an item stating at least the title, year, new authors, and publisher of the Modified Version as given on the Title Page. If there is no section Entitled History in the Document, create one stating the title, year, authors, and publisher of the Document as given on its Title Page, then add an item describing the Modified Version as stated in the previous sentence.
- J. Preserve the network location, if any, given in the Document for public access to a Transparent copy of the Document, and likewise the network locations given in the Document for previous versions it was based on. These may be placed in the History section.

You may omit a network location for a work that was published at least four years before the Document itself, or if the original publisher of the version it refers to gives permission.

K. For any section Entitled Acknowledgements or Dedications, Preserve the Title of the section, and preserve in the section all the substance and tone of each of the contributor acknowledgements and/or dedications given therein.

L. Preserve all the Invariant Sections of the Document, unaltered in their text and in their titles. Section numbers or the equivalent are not considered part of the section titles.

M. Delete any section Entitled Endorsements. Such a section may not be included in the Modified Version.

N. Do not retitle any existing section to be Entitled Endorsements or to conflict in title with any Invariant Section.

O. Preserve any Warranty Disclaimers.

If the Modified Version includes new front-matter sections or appendices that qualify as Secondary Sections and contain no material copied from the Document, you may at your option designate some or all of these sections as invariant. To do this, add their titles to the list of Invariant Sections in the Modified Version's license notice. These titles must be distinct from any other section titles.

You may add a section Entitled Endorsements, provided it contains nothing but endorsements of your Modified Version by various parties--for example, statements of peer review or that the text has been approved by an organization as the authoritative definition of a standard.

You may add a passage of up to five words as a Front-Cover Text, and a passage of up to 25 words as a Back-Cover Text, to the end of the list of Cover Texts in the Modified Version. Only one passage of Front-Cover Text and one of Back-Cover Text may be added by (or through arrangements made by) any one entity. If the Document already includes a cover text for the same cover, previously added by you or by arrangement made by the same entity you are acting on behalf of, you may not add another; but you may replace the old one, on explicit permission from the previous publisher that added the old one.

The author(s) and publisher(s) of the Document do not by this License give permission to use their names for publicity for or to assert or imply endorsement of any Modified Version.

5. COMBINING DOCUMENTS

You may combine the Document with other documents released under this License, under the terms defined in section 4 above for modified versions, provided that you include in the combination all of the Invariant Sections of all of the original documents, unmodified, and list them all as Invariant Sections of your combined work in its license notice, and that you preserve all their Warranty Disclaimers.

The combined work need only contain one copy of this License, and multiple identical Invariant Sections may be replaced with a single copy. If there are multiple Invariant Sections with the same name but different contents, make the title of each such section unique by adding at the end of it, in parentheses, the name of the original author or publisher of that section if known, or else a unique number. Make the same adjustment to the section titles in the list of Invariant Sections in the license notice of the combined work.

In the combination, you must combine any sections Entitled History in the various original documents, forming one section Entitled History; likewise combine any sections Entitled Acknowledgements, and any sections Entitled Dedications. You must delete all sections Entitled Endorsements.

6. COLLECTIONS OF DOCUMENTS

You may make a collection consisting of the Document and other documents released under this License, and replace the individual copies of this License in the various documents with a single copy that is included in the collection, provided that you follow the rules of this License for verbatim copying of each of the documents in all other respects.

You may extract a single document from such a collection, and distribute it individually under this License, provided you insert a copy of this License into the extracted document, and follow this License in all other respects regarding verbatim copying of that document.

7. AGGREGATION WITH INDEPENDENT WORKS

A compilation of the Document or its derivatives with other separate and independent documents or works, in or on a volume of a storage or distribution medium, is called an aggregate if the copyright resulting from the compilation is not used to limit the legal rights of the compilation's users beyond what the individual works permit. When the Document is included in an aggregate, this License does not apply to the other works in the aggregate which are not themselves derivative works of the Document.

If the Cover Text requirement of section 3 is applicable to these copies of the Document, then if the Document is less than one half of the entire aggregate, the Document's Cover Texts may be placed on covers that bracket the Document within the aggregate, or the electronic equivalent of covers if the Document is in electronic form. Otherwise they must appear on printed covers that bracket the whole aggregate.

8. TRANSLATION

Translation is considered a kind of modification, so you may distribute translations of the Document under the terms of section 4. Replacing Invariant Sections with translations requires special permission from their copyright holders, but you may include translations of some or all Invariant Sections in addition to the original versions of these Invariant Sections. You may include a translation of this License, and all the license notices in the Document, and any Warranty Disclaimers, provided that you also include the original English version of this License and the original versions of those notices and disclaimers. In case of a disagreement between the translation and the original version of this License or a notice or disclaimer, the original version will prevail.

If a section in the Document is Entitled Acknowledgements, Dedications, or History, the requirement (section 4) to Preserve its Title (section 1) will typically require changing the actual title.

9. TERMINATION

You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Document except as expressly provided for under this License. Any other attempt to copy, modify, sublicense or distribute the Document is void, and will automatically terminate your rights under this License. However, parties who have received copies, or rights, from you under this License will not have their licenses terminated so long as such parties remain in full compliance.

10. FUTURE REVISIONS OF THIS LICENSE

The Free Software Foundation may publish new, revised versions of the GNU Free Documentation License from time to time. Such new versions will be similar in spirit to the present version, but may differ in detail to address new problems or concerns. See <http://www.gnu.org/copyleft/>.

Each version of the License is given a distinguishing version number. If the Document specifies that a particular numbered version of this License or any later version applies to it, you have the option of following the terms and conditions either of that specified version or of any later version that has been published (not as a draft) by the Free Software Foundation. If the Document does not specify a version number of this License, you may choose any version ever published (not as a draft) by the Free Software Foundation.

ADDENDUM: How to use this License for your documents

To use this License in a document you have written, include a copy of the License in the document and put the following copyright and license notices just after the title page:

Copyright (c) YEAR YOUR NAME.

Permission is granted to copy, distribute and/or modify this document under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License, Version 1.2 or any later version published by the Free Software Foundation; with no Invariant Sections, no Front-Cover Texts, and no Back-Cover Texts. A copy of the license is included in the section entitled GNU Free Documentation License.

If you have Invariant Sections, Front-Cover Texts and Back-Cover Texts, replace the with...Texts. line with this:

with the Invariant Sections being LIST THEIR TITLES, with the Front-Cover Texts being LIST, and with the Back-Cover Texts being LIST.

If you have Invariant Sections without Cover Texts, or some other combination of the three, merge those two alternatives to suit the situation.

If your document contains nontrivial examples of program code, we recommend releasing these examples in parallel under your choice of free software license, such as the GNU General Public License, to permit their use in free software.

This package is an SSL implementation written by Eric Young (eay@cryptsoft.com).

The implementation was written so as to conform with Netscapes SSL.
This library is free for commercial and non-commercial use as long as the following conditions are aheared to. The following conditions apply to all code found in this distribution, be it the RC4, RSA, lhash, DES, etc., code; not just the SSL code. The SSL documentation included with this distribution is covered by the same copyright terms except that the holder is Tim Hudson (tjh@cryptsoft.com).
Copyright remains Eric Young's, and as such any Copyright notices in the code are not to be removed.
If this package is used in a product, Eric Young should be given attribution as the author of the parts of the library used.
This can be in the form of a textual message at program startup or in documentation (online or textual) provided with the package.

Redistribution and use in source and binary forms, with or without documentation and/or other materials provided with the distribution.

must display the following acknowledgement:

This product includes cryptographic software written by Eric Young (eay@cryptsoft.com)

This code implements the MD5 message-digest algorithm.
The algorithm is due to Ron Rivest.

This code was
written by Colin Plumb in 1993, no copyright is claimed.
This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.
Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc.
This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent,
except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese
with every copy.
To compute the message digest of a chunk of bytes, declare an MD5Context structure, pass it to MD5Init, call MD5Update as needed on buffers full of bytes, and then call MD5Final, which will fill a supplied 16-byte array with the digest.

This configure script is free software; the Free Software Foundation gives unlimited permission to copy, distribute and modify it.

(1) GPL-compatible doesn't mean that we're distributing Python under the GPL. All Python licenses, unlike the GPL, let you distribute a modified version without making your changes open source. The GPL-compatible licenses make it possible to combine Python with other software that is released under the GPL; the others don't.

(2) According to Richard Stallman, 1.6.1 is not GPL-compatible, because its license has a choice of law clause. According to CNRI, however, Stallman's lawyer has told CNRI's lawyer that 1.6.1 is not incompatible with the GPL.

Thanks to the many outside volunteers who have worked under Guido's direction to make these releases possible.

This module serves to replace the original parser module written by Guido. The functionality is not matched precisely, but the original may be implemented on top of this. This is desirable since the source of the text to be parsed is now divorced from this interface.

Unlike the prior interface, the ability to give a parse tree produced by Python code as a tuple to the compiler is enabled by this module. See the documentation for more details.

I've added some annotations that help with the lint code-checking program, but they're not complete by a long shot. The real errors that lint detects are gone, but there are still warnings with `Py_[X]DECREF()` and `Py_[X]INCREf()` macros. The lint annotations look like `NOTE(...)`.

This configure script is free software; the Free Software Foundation gives unlimited permission to copy, distribute and modify it.

(1) GPL-compatible doesn't mean that we're distributing Python under the GPL. All Python licenses, unlike the GPL, let you distribute a modified version without making your changes open source. The GPL-compatible licenses make it possible to combine Python with other software that is released under the GPL; the others don't.

(2) According to Richard Stallman, 1.6.1 is not GPL-compatible, because its license has a choice of law clause. According to CNRI, however, Stallman's lawyer has told CNRI's lawyer that 1.6.1
is not incompatible with the GPL.

Thanks to the many outside volunteers who have worked under Guido's direction to make these releases possible.

This module serves to replace the original parser module written by Guido. The functionality is not matched precisely, but the original may be implemented on top of this. This is desirable since the source of the text to be parsed is now divorced from this interface.

Unlike the prior interface, the ability to give a parse tree produced by Python code as a tuple to the compiler is enabled by this module. See the documentation for more details.

I've added some annotations that help with the lint code-checking program, but they're not complete by a long shot. The real errors that lint detects are gone, but there are still warnings with Py_[X]DECREF() and Py_[X]INCREC() macros. The lint annotations look like NOTE(...).

Microsoft Reciprocal License (MS-RL)

This license governs use of the accompanying software. If you use the software, you accept this license. If you do not accept the license, do not use the software.

1. Definitions

The terms reproduce, reproduction, derivative works, and distribution have the same meaning here as under U.S. copyright law.

A contribution is the original software, or any additions or changes to the software.

A contributor is any person that distributes its contribution under this license.

Licensed patents are a contributor's patent claims that read directly on its contribution.

2. Grant of Rights

(A) Copyright Grant- Subject to the terms of this license, including the license conditions and limitations in section 3, each contributor grants you a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free copyright license to reproduce its contribution, prepare derivative works of its contribution, and distribute its contribution or any derivative works that you create.

(B) Patent Grant- Subject to the terms of this license, including the license conditions and limitations in section 3, each contributor grants you a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free license under its licensed patents to make, have made, use, sell, offer for sale, import, and/or otherwise dispose of its contribution in the software or derivative works of the contribution in the software.

3. Conditions and Limitations

(A) Reciprocal Grants- For any file you distribute that contains code from the software (in source code or binary format), you must provide recipients the source code to that file along with a copy of this license, which license will govern that file. You may license other files that are entirely your own work and do not contain code from the software under any terms you choose.

(B) No Trademark License- This license does not grant you rights to use any contributors' name, logo, or trademarks.

(C) If you bring a patent claim against any contributor over patents that you claim are infringed by the software, your patent license from such contributor to the software ends automatically.

(D) If you distribute any portion of the software, you must retain all copyright, patent, trademark, and attribution notices that are present in the software.

(E) If you distribute any portion of the software in source code form, you may do so only under this license by including a complete copy of this license with your distribution. If you distribute any portion of the software in compiled or object code form, you may only do so under a license that complies with this license.

(F) The software is licensed as-is. You bear the risk of using it. The contributors give no express warranties, guarantees or conditions. You may have additional consumer rights under your local laws which this license cannot change. To the extent permitted under your local laws, the contributors exclude the implied warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose and non-infringement

Contributor shall mean Licensors and any individual or Legal Entity on behalf of whom a Contribution has been received by Licensors and subsequently incorporated within the Work.

2. Grant of Copyright License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable copyright license to reproduce, prepare Derivative Works of, publicly display, publicly perform, sublicense, and distribute the Work and such Derivative Works in Source or Object form.

3. Grant of Patent License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable (except as stated in this section) patent license to make, have made, use, offer to sell, sell, import, and otherwise transfer the Work, where such license applies only to those patent claims licensable by such Contributor that are necessarily infringed by their Contribution(s) alone or by combination of their Contribution(s) with the Work to which such Contribution(s) was submitted. If You institute patent litigation against any entity (including a cross-claim or counterclaim in a lawsuit) alleging that the Work or a Contribution incorporated within the Work constitutes direct or contributory patent infringement, then any patent licenses granted to You under this License for that Work shall terminate as of the date such litigation is filed.

4. Redistribution. You may reproduce and distribute copies of the Work or Derivative Works thereof in any medium, with or without modifications, and in Source or Object form, provided that You meet the following conditions:

(a) You must give any other recipients of the Work or Derivative Works a copy of this License and

(b) You must cause any modified files to carry prominent notices stating that You changed the files and

(c) You must retain, in the Source form of any Derivative Works that You distribute, all copyright, patent, trademark, and attribution notices from the Source form of the Work, excluding those notices that do not pertain to any part of the Derivative Works and

(d) If the Work includes a NOTICE text file as part of its distribution, then any Derivative Works that You distribute must include a readable copy of the attribution notices contained within such NOTICE file, excluding those notices that do not pertain to any part of the Derivative Works, in at least one of the following places: within a NOTICE text file distributed as part of the Derivative Works within the Source form or documentation, if provided along with the Derivative Works or, within a display generated by the Derivative Works, if and wherever such third-party notices normally appear. The contents of the NOTICE file are for informational purposes only and do not modify the License. You may add Your own attribution notices within Derivative Works that You distribute, alongside or as an addendum to the NOTICE text from the Work, provided that such additional attribution notices cannot be construed as modifying the License.

You may add Your own copyright statement to Your modifications and may provide additional or different license terms and conditions for use, reproduction, or distribution of Your modifications, or for any such Derivative Works as a whole, provided Your use, reproduction, and distribution of the Work otherwise complies with the conditions stated in this License.

5. Submission of Contributions. Unless You explicitly state otherwise, any Contribution intentionally submitted for inclusion in the Work by You to the Licensor shall be under the terms and conditions of this License, without any additional terms or conditions. Notwithstanding the above, nothing herein shall supersede or modify the terms of any separate license agreement you may have executed with Licensor regarding such Contributions.

6. Trademarks. This License does not grant permission to use the trade names, trademarks, service marks, or product names of the Licensor, except as required for reasonable and customary use in describing the origin of the Work and reproducing the content of the NOTICE file.

7. Disclaimer of Warranty. Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, Licensor provides the Work (and each Contributor provides its Contributions) on an AS IS BASIS, WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied, including, without limitation, any warranties or conditions of TITLE, NON-INFRINGEMENT, MERCHANTABILITY, or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. You are solely responsible for determining the appropriateness of using or redistributing the Work and assume any risks associated with Your exercise of permissions under this License.

8. Limitation of Liability. In no event and under no legal theory, whether in tort (including negligence), contract, or otherwise, unless required by applicable law (such as deliberate and grossly negligent acts) or agreed to in writing, shall any Contributor be liable to You for damages, including any direct, indirect, special, incidental, or consequential damages of any character arising as a result of this License or out of the use or inability to use the Work (including but not limited to damages for loss of goodwill, work stoppage, computer failure or malfunction, or any and all other commercial damages or losses), even if such Contributor has been advised of the possibility of such damages.

9. Accepting Warranty or Additional Liability. While redistributing the Work or Derivative Works thereof, You may choose to offer, and charge a fee for, acceptance of support, warranty, indemnity, or other liability obligations and/or rights consistent with this License. However, in accepting such obligations, You may act only on Your own behalf and on Your sole responsibility, not on behalf of any other Contributor, and only if You agree to indemnify, defend, and hold each Contributor harmless for any liability incurred by, or claims asserted against, such Contributor by reason of your accepting any such warranty or additional liability

Modified by Jack Jansen, CWI, July 1995:
- Use binascii module to do the actual line-by-line conversion between ascii and binary. This results in a 1000-fold speedup. The C version is still 5 times faster, though.
- Arguments more compliant with python standard

This module serves to replace the original parser module written by Guido. The functionality is not matched precisely, but the original may be implemented on top of this. This is desirable since the source of the text to be parsed is now divorced from this interface.

Unlike the prior interface, the ability to give a parse tree produced by Python code as a tuple to the compiler is enabled by this module. See the documentation for more details.

I've added some annotations that help with the lint code-checking program, but they're not complete by a long shot. The real errors that lint detects are gone, but there are still warnings with `Py_[X]DECREF()` and `Py_[X]INCREf()` macros. The lint annotations look like `NOTE(...)`.

This license governs use of the accompanying software. If you use the software, you accept this license. If you do not accept the license, do not use the software.

1. Definitions

The terms reproduce, reproduction, derivative works, and distribution have the same meaning here as under U.S. copyright law.

A contribution is the original software, or any additions or changes to the software.

A contributor is any person that distributes its contribution under this license.

Licensed patents are a contributor's patent claims that read directly on its contribution.

2. Grant of Rights

(A) Copyright Grant- Subject to the terms of this license, including the license conditions and limitations in section 3, each contributor grants you a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free copyright license to reproduce its contribution, prepare derivative works of its contribution, and distribute its contribution or any derivative works that you create.

(B) Patent Grant- Subject to the terms of this license, including the license conditions and limitations in section 3, each contributor grants you a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free license under its licensed patents to make, have made, use, sell, offer for sale, import, and/or otherwise dispose of its contribution in the software or derivative works of the contribution in the software.

3. Conditions and Limitations

(A) Reciprocal Grants- For any file you distribute that contains code from the software (in source code or binary format), you must provide recipients the source code to that file along with a copy of this license, which license will govern that file. You may license other files that are entirely your own work and do not contain code from the software under any terms you choose.

(B) No Trademark License- This license does not grant you rights to use any contributors' name, logo, or trademarks.

(C) If you bring a patent claim against any contributor over patents that you claim are infringed by the software, your patent license from such contributor to the software ends automatically.

(D) If you distribute any portion of the software, you must retain all copyright, patent, trademark, and attribution notices that are present in the software.

(E) If you distribute any portion of the software in source code form, you may do so only under this license by including a complete copy of this license with your distribution. If you distribute any portion of the software in compiled or object code form, you may only do so under a license that complies with this license.

(F) The software is licensed as-is. You bear the risk of using it. The contributors give no express warranties, guarantees or conditions. You may have additional consumer rights under your local laws which this license cannot change. To the extent permitted under your local laws, the contributors exclude the implied warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose and non-infringement

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR USE, REPRODUCTION, AND DISTRIBUTION

1. Definitions.

License shall mean the terms and conditions for use, reproduction, and distribution as defined by Sections 1 through 9 of this document.

Licensor shall mean the copyright owner or entity authorized by the copyright owner that is granting the License.

Legal Entity shall mean the union of the acting entity and all other entities that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with that entity. For the purposes of this definition, control means (i) the power, direct or indirect, to cause the direction or management of such entity, whether by contract or otherwise, or (ii) ownership of fifty percent (50%) or more of the outstanding shares, or (iii) beneficial ownership of such entity.

You (or Your) shall mean an individual or Legal Entity exercising permissions granted by this License.

Source form shall mean the preferred form for making modifications, including but not limited to software source code, documentation source, and configuration files.

Object form shall mean any form resulting from mechanical transformation or translation of a Source form, including but not limited to compiled object code, generated documentation, and conversions to other media types.

Work shall mean the work of authorship, whether in Source or Object form, made available under the License, as indicated by a copyright notice that is included in or attached to the work (an example is provided in the Appendix below).

Derivative Works shall mean any work, whether in Source or Object form, that is based on (or derived from) the Work and for which the editorial revisions, annotations, elaborations, or other modifications represent, as a whole, an original work of authorship. For the purposes of this License, Derivative Works shall not include works that remain separable from, or merely link (or bind by name) to the interfaces of, the Work and Derivative Works thereof.

Contribution shall mean any work of authorship, including the original version of the Work and any modifications or additions to that Work or Derivative Works thereof, that is intentionally submitted to Licensor for inclusion in the Work by the copyright owner or by an individual or Legal Entity authorized to submit on behalf of the copyright owner. For the purposes of this definition, submitted means any form of electronic, verbal, or written communication sent to the Licensor or its representatives, including but not limited to communication on electronic mailing lists, source code control systems, and issue tracking systems that are managed by, or on behalf of, the Licensor for the purpose of discussing and improving the Work, but excluding communication that is conspicuously marked or otherwise designated in writing by the copyright owner as Not a Contribution.

Contributor shall mean Licensor and any individual or Legal Entity on behalf of whom a Contribution has been received by Licensor and subsequently incorporated within the Work.

2. Grant of Copyright License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable copyright license to reproduce, prepare Derivative Works of, publicly display, publicly perform, sublicense, and distribute the Work and such Derivative Works in Source or Object form.

3. Grant of Patent License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable (except as stated in this section) patent license to make, have made, use, offer to sell, sell, import, and otherwise transfer the Work, where such license applies only to those patent claims licensable by such Contributor that are necessarily infringed by their Contribution(s) alone or by combination of their Contribution(s) with the Work to which such Contribution(s) was submitted. If You institute patent litigation against any entity (including a cross-claim or counterclaim in a lawsuit) alleging that the Work or a Contribution incorporated within the Work constitutes direct or contributory patent infringement, then any patent licenses granted to You under this License for that Work shall terminate as of the date such litigation is filed.

4. Redistribution. You may reproduce and distribute copies of the Work or Derivative Works thereof in any medium, with or without modifications, and in Source or Object form, provided that You meet the following conditions:

(a) You must give any other recipients of the Work or Derivative Works a copy of this License and

(b) You must cause any modified files to carry prominent notices stating that You changed the files and

(c) You must retain, in the Source form of any Derivative Works that You distribute, all copyright, patent, trademark, and attribution notices from the Source form of the Work, excluding those notices that do not pertain to any part of the Derivative Works and

(d) If the Work includes a NOTICE text file as part of its distribution, then any Derivative Works that You distribute must include a readable copy of the attribution notices contained within such NOTICE file, excluding those notices that do not pertain to any part of the Derivative Works, in at least one of the following places: within a NOTICE text file distributed as part of the Derivative Works within the Source form or documentation, if provided along with the Derivative Works or, within a display generated by the Derivative Works, if and wherever such third-party notices normally appear. The contents of the NOTICE file are for informational purposes only and do not modify the License. You may add Your own attribution notices within Derivative Works that You distribute, alongside or as an addendum to the NOTICE text from the Work, provided that such additional attribution notices cannot be construed as modifying the License.

You may add Your own copyright statement to Your modifications and may provide additional or different license terms and conditions for use, reproduction, or distribution of Your modifications, or for any such Derivative Works as a whole, provided Your use, reproduction, and distribution of the Work otherwise complies with the conditions stated in this License.

5. Submission of Contributions. Unless You explicitly state otherwise, any Contribution intentionally submitted for inclusion in the Work by You to the Licensor shall be under the terms and conditions of this License, without any additional terms or conditions. Notwithstanding the above, nothing herein shall supersede or modify the terms of any separate license agreement you may have executed with Licensor regarding such Contributions.

6. Trademarks. This License does not grant permission to use the trade names, trademarks, service marks, or product names of the Licensor, except as required for reasonable and customary use in describing the origin of the Work and reproducing the content of the NOTICE file.

7. Disclaimer of Warranty. Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, Licensor provides the Work (and each Contributor provides its Contributions) on an AS IS BASIS, WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied, including, without limitation, any warranties or conditions of TITLE, NON-INFRINGEMENT, MERCHANTABILITY, or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. You are solely responsible for determining the appropriateness of using or redistributing the Work and assume any risks associated with Your exercise of permissions under this License.

8. Limitation of Liability. In no event and under no legal theory, whether in tort (including negligence), contract, or otherwise, unless required by applicable law (such as deliberate and grossly negligent acts) or agreed to in writing, shall any Contributor be liable to You for damages, including any direct, indirect, special, incidental, or consequential damages of any character arising as a result of this License or out of the use or inability to use the

Work (including but not limited to damages for loss of goodwill, work stoppage, computer failure or malfunction, or any and all other commercial damages or losses), even if such Contributor has been advised of the possibility of such damages.

9. Accepting Warranty or Additional Liability. While redistributing the Work or Derivative Works thereof, You may choose to offer, and charge a fee for, acceptance of support, warranty, indemnity, or other liability obligations and/or rights consistent with this License. However, in accepting such obligations, You may act only on Your own behalf and on Your sole responsibility, not on behalf of any other Contributor, and only if You agree to indemnify, defend, and hold each Contributor harmless for any liability incurred by, or claims asserted against, such Contributor by reason of your accepting any such warranty or additional liability

Modified by Jack Jansen, CWI, July 1995:

- Use binascii module to do the actual line-by-line conversion between ascii and binary. This results in a 1000-fold speedup. The C version is still 5 times faster, though.
- Arguments more compliant with python standard

This module serves to replace the original parser module written by Guido. The functionality is not matched precisely, but the original may be implemented on top of this. This is desirable since the source of the text to be parsed is now divorced from this interface.

Unlike the prior interface, the ability to give a parse tree produced by Python code as a tuple to the compiler is enabled by this module. See the documentation for more details.

I've added some annotations that help with the lint code-checking program, but they're not complete by a long shot. The real errors that lint detects are gone, but there are still warnings with `Py_[X]DECREF()` and `Py_[X]INCREf()` macros. The lint annotations look like `NOTE(...)`.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR USE, REPRODUCTION, AND DISTRIBUTION

1. Definitions.

License shall mean the terms and conditions for use, reproduction, and distribution as defined by Sections 1 through 9 of this document.

Licensors shall mean the copyright owner or entity authorized by the copyright owner that is granting the License.

Legal Entity shall mean the union of the acting entity and all other entities that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with that entity. For the purposes of this definition, control means (i) the power, direct or indirect, to cause the direction or management of such entity, whether by contract or otherwise, or (ii) ownership of fifty percent (50%) or more of the outstanding shares, or (iii) beneficial ownership of such entity.

You (or Your) shall mean an individual or Legal Entity exercising permissions granted by this License.

Source form shall mean the preferred form for making modifications, including but not limited to software source code, documentation source, and configuration files.

Object form shall mean any form resulting from mechanical transformation or translation of a Source form, including but not limited to compiled object code, generated documentation, and conversions to other media types.

Work shall mean the work of authorship, whether in Source or Object form, made available under the License, as indicated by a copyright notice that is included in or attached to the work (an example is provided in the Appendix below).

Derivative Works shall mean any work, whether in Source or Object form, that is based on (or derived from) the Work and for which the editorial revisions, annotations, elaborations, or other modifications represent, as a whole, an original work of authorship. For the purposes of this License, Derivative Works shall not include works that remain separable from, or merely link (or bind by name) to the interfaces of, the Work and Derivative Works thereof.

Contribution shall mean any work of authorship, including the original version of the Work and any modifications or additions to that Work or Derivative Works thereof, that is intentionally submitted to Licensor for inclusion in the Work by the copyright owner or by an individual or Legal Entity authorized to submit on behalf of the copyright owner. For the purposes of this definition, submitted means any form of electronic, verbal, or written communication sent to the Licensor or its representatives, including but not limited to communication on electronic mailing lists, source code control systems, and issue tracking systems that are managed by, or on behalf of, the Licensor for the purpose of discussing and improving the Work, but excluding communication that is conspicuously marked or otherwise designated in writing by the copyright owner as Not a Contribution.

Contributor shall mean Licensor and any individual or Legal Entity on behalf of whom a Contribution has been received by Licensor and subsequently incorporated within the Work.

2. Grant of Copyright License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable copyright license to reproduce, prepare Derivative Works of, publicly display, publicly perform, sublicense, and distribute the Work and such Derivative Works in Source or Object form.

3. Grant of Patent License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, no-charge, royalty-free, irrevocable (except as stated in this section) patent license to make, have made, use, offer to sell, sell, import, and otherwise transfer the Work, where such license applies only to those patent claims licensable by such Contributor that are necessarily infringed by their Contribution(s) alone or by combination of their Contribution(s) with the Work to which such Contribution(s) was submitted. If You institute patent litigation against any entity (including a cross-claim or counterclaim in a lawsuit) alleging that the Work or a Contribution incorporated within the Work constitutes direct or contributory patent infringement, then any patent licenses granted to You under this License for that Work shall terminate as of the date such litigation is filed.

4. Redistribution. You may reproduce and distribute copies of the Work or Derivative Works thereof in any medium, with or without modifications, and in Source or Object form, provided that You meet the following conditions:

You must give any other recipients of the Work or Derivative Works a copy of this License; and
You must cause any modified files to carry prominent notices stating that You changed the files; and
You must retain, in the Source form of any Derivative Works that You distribute, all copyright, patent, trademark, and attribution notices from the Source form of the Work, excluding those notices that do not pertain to any part of the Derivative Works; and

If the Work includes a NOTICE text file as part of its distribution, then any Derivative Works that You distribute must include a readable copy of the attribution notices contained within such NOTICE file, excluding those notices that do not pertain to any part of the Derivative Works, in at least one of the following places: within a NOTICE text file distributed as part of the Derivative Works; within the Source form or documentation, if provided along with the Derivative Works; or, within a display generated by the Derivative Works, if and wherever such third-party notices normally appear. The contents of the NOTICE file are for informational purposes only and do not modify the License. You may add Your own attribution notices within Derivative Works that You distribute, alongside or as an addendum to the NOTICE text from the Work, provided that such additional attribution notices cannot be construed as modifying the License.

You may add Your own copyright statement to Your modifications and may provide additional or different license terms and conditions for use, reproduction, or distribution of Your modifications, or for any such Derivative Works as a whole, provided Your use, reproduction, and distribution of the Work otherwise complies with the conditions stated in this License.

5. Submission of Contributions. Unless You explicitly state otherwise, any Contribution intentionally submitted for inclusion in the Work by You to the Licensor shall be under the terms and conditions of this License, without any additional terms or conditions. Notwithstanding the above, nothing herein shall supersede or modify the terms of any separate license agreement you may have executed with Licensor regarding such Contributions.

6. Trademarks. This License does not grant permission to use the trade names, trademarks, service marks, or product names of the Licensor, except as required for reasonable and customary use in describing the origin of the Work and reproducing the content of the NOTICE file.

7. Disclaimer of Warranty. Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, Licensor provides the Work (and each Contributor provides its Contributions) on an AS IS BASIS, WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied, including, without limitation, any warranties or conditions of TITLE, NON-INFRINGEMENT, MERCHANTABILITY, or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. You are solely responsible for determining the appropriateness of using or redistributing the Work and assume any risks associated with Your exercise of permissions under this License.

8. Limitation of Liability. In no event and under no legal theory, whether in tort (including negligence), contract, or otherwise, unless required by applicable law (such as deliberate and grossly negligent acts) or agreed to in writing, shall any Contributor be liable to You for damages, including any direct, indirect, special, incidental, or consequential damages of any character arising as a result of this License or out of the use or inability to use the Work (including but not limited to damages for loss of goodwill, work stoppage, computer failure or malfunction, or any and all other commercial damages or losses), even if such Contributor has been advised of the possibility of such damages.

9. Accepting Warranty or Additional Liability. While redistributing the Work or Derivative Works thereof, You may choose to offer, and charge a fee for, acceptance of support, warranty, indemnity, or other liability obligations and/or rights consistent with this License. However, in accepting such obligations, You may act only on Your own behalf and on Your sole responsibility, not on behalf of any other Contributor, and only if You agree to indemnify, defend, and hold each Contributor harmless for any liability incurred by, or claims asserted against, such Contributor by reason of your accepting any such warranty or additional liability.

END OF TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, software distributed under the License is distributed on an AS IS BASIS, WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied. This code implements the MD5 message-digest algorithm.
The algorithm is due to Ron Rivest.

This code was
written by Colin Plumb in 1993, no copyright is claimed.
This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.
Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc.
This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent,
except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese
with every copy.
To compute the message digest of a chunk of bytes, declare an MD5Context structure, pass it to MD5Init, call MD5Update as needed on buffers full of bytes, and then call MD5Final, which will fill a supplied 16-byte array with the digest.

Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change free software--to make sure the software is free for all its users. This General Public License applies to most of the Free Software Foundation's software and to any other program whose authors commit to using it. (Some other Free Software Foundation software is covered by the GNU Library General Public License instead.) You can apply it to your programs, too.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (and charge for this service if you wish), that you receive source code or can get it if you want it, that you can change the software or use pieces of it in new free programs; and that you know you can do these things.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid anyone to deny you these rights or to ask you to surrender the rights. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that you have. You must make sure that they, too, receive or can get the source code. And you must show them these terms so they know their rights.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this license which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.

Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain that everyone understands that there is no warranty for this free software. If the software is modified by someone else and passed on, we want its recipients to know that what they have is not the original, so that any problems introduced by others will not reflect on the original authors' reputations.

Finally, any free program is threatened constantly by software patents. We wish to avoid the danger that redistributors of a free program will individually obtain patent licenses, in effect making the program proprietary. To prevent this, we have made it clear that any patent must be licensed for everyone's free use or not licensed at all.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder saying it may be distributed under the terms of this General Public License. The Program, below, refers to any such program or work, and a work based on the Program means either the Program or any derivative work under copyright law: that is to say, a work containing the Program or a portion of it, either verbatim or with modifications and/or translated into another language. (Hereinafter, translation is included without limitation in the term modification.) Each licensee is addressed as you.

activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this License; they are outside its scope. The act of running the Program is not restricted, and the output from the Program is covered only if its contents constitute a work based on the Program (independent of having been made by running the Program). Whether that is true depends on what the Program does.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty; keep intact all the notices that refer to this License and to the absence of any warranty; and give any other recipients of the Program a copy of this License along with the Program.

You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion of it, thus forming a work based on the Program, and copy and distribute such modifications or work under the terms of Section 1 above, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

- a) You must cause the modified files to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.
- b) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program or any part thereof, to be licensed as a whole at no charge to all third parties under the terms of this License.
- c) If the modified program normally reads commands interactively when run, you must cause it, when started running for such interactive use in the most ordinary way, to print or display an announcement including an appropriate copyright notice and a notice that there is no warranty (or else, saying that you provide a warranty) and that users may redistribute the program under these conditions, and telling the user how to view a copy of this License. (Exception: if the Program itself is interactive but does not normally print such an announcement, your work based on the Program is not required to print an announcement.)

These requirements apply to the modified work as a whole. If identifiable sections of that work are not derived from the Program, and can be reasonably considered independent and separate works in themselves, then this License, and its terms, do not apply to those sections when you distribute them as separate works. But when you distribute the same sections as part of a whole which is a work based on the Program, the distribution of the whole must be on the terms of this License, whose permissions for other licensees extend to the entire whole, and thus to each and every part regardless of who wrote it.

Thus, it is not the intent of this section to claim rights or contest your rights to work written entirely by you; rather, the intent is to exercise the right to control the distribution of derivative or collective works based on the Program.

In addition, mere aggregation of another work not based on the Program with the Program (or with a work based on the Program) on a volume of a storage or distribution medium does not bring the other work under the scope of this License.

3. You may copy and distribute the Program (or a work based on it, under Section 2) in object code or executable form under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above provided that you also do one of the following:

- a) Accompany it with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above on a medium customarily used for software interchange; or,
- b) Accompany it with a written offer, valid for at least three years, to give any third party, for a charge no more than your cost of physically performing source distribution, a complete machine-readable copy of the corresponding source code, to be distributed under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above on a medium customarily used for software interchange; or,
- c) Accompany it with the information you received as to the offer to distribute corresponding source code. (This alternative is allowed only for noncommercial distribution and only if you received the program in object code or executable form with such an offer, in accord with Subsection b above.)

The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means all the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and installation of the executable. However, as a special exception, the source code distributed need not include anything that is normally distributed (in either source or binary form) with the major components (compiler, kernel, and so on) of the operating system on which the executable runs, unless that component itself accompanies the executable.

If distribution of executable or object code is made by offering access to copy from a designated place, then offering equivalent access to copy the source code from the same place counts as distribution of the source code, even though third parties are not compelled to copy the source along with the object code.

4. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program except as expressly provided under this License. Any attempt otherwise to copy, modify, sublicense or distribute the Program is void, and will automatically terminate your rights under this License. However, parties who have received copies, or rights, from you under this License will not have their licenses terminated so long as such parties remain in full compliance.

5. You are not required to accept this License, since you have not signed it. However, nothing else grants you permission to modify or distribute the Program or its derivative works. These actions are prohibited by law if you do not accept this License. Therefore, by modifying or distributing the Program (or any work based on the Program), you indicate your acceptance of this License to do so, and all its terms and conditions for copying, distributing or modifying the Program or works based on it.

6. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program), the recipient automatically receives a license from the original licensor to copy, distribute or modify the Program subject to these terms and conditions. You may not impose any further restrictions on the recipients' exercise of the rights granted herein. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

7. If, as a consequence of a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent issues), conditions are imposed on you (whether by court order, agreement or otherwise) that contradict the conditions of this License, they do not excuse you from the conditions of this License. If you cannot distribute so as to satisfy simultaneously your obligations under this License and any other pertinent obligations, then as a consequence you may not distribute the Program at all. For example, if a patent license would not permit royalty-free redistribution of the Program by all those who receive copies directly or indirectly through you, then the only way you could satisfy both it and this License would be to refrain entirely from distribution of the Program.

If any portion of this section is held invalid or unenforceable under any particular circumstance, the balance of the section is intended to apply and the section as a whole is intended to apply in other circumstances.

It is not the purpose of this section to induce you to infringe any patents or other property right claims or to contest validity of any such claims; this section has the sole purpose of protecting the integrity of the free software distribution system, which is implemented by public license practices. Many people have made generous contributions to the wide range of software distributed through that system in reliance on consistent application of that system; it is up to the author/donor to decide if he or she is willing to distribute software through any other system and a licensee cannot impose that choice.

This section is intended to make thoroughly clear what is believed to be a consequence of the rest of this License.

8. If the distribution and/or use of the Program is restricted in certain countries either by patents or by copyrighted interfaces, the original copyright holder who places the Program under this License may add an explicit geographical distribution limitation excluding those countries, so that distribution is permitted only in or among countries not thus excluded. In such case, this License incorporates the limitation as if written in the body of this License.

9. The Free Software Foundation may publish revised and/or new versions of the General Public License from time to time. Such new versions will be similar in spirit to the present version, but may differ in detail to address new problems or concerns.

Each version is given a distinguishing version number. If the Program specifies a version number of this License which applies to it and any later version, you have the option of following the terms and conditions either of that version or of any later version published by the Free Software Foundation. If the Program does not specify a version number of this License, you may choose any version ever published by the Free Software Foundation.

10. If you wish to incorporate parts of the Program into other free programs whose distribution conditions are different, write to the author to ask for permission. For software which is copyrighted by the Free Software Foundation, write to the Free Software Foundation; we sometimes make exceptions for this. Our decision will be guided by the two goals of preserving the free status of all derivatives of our free software and of promoting the sharing and reuse of software generally.

NO WARRANTY

11. BECAUSE THE PROGRAM IS LICENSED FREE OF CHARGE, THERE IS NO WARRANTY FOR THE PROGRAM, TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY APPLICABLE LAW. EXCEPT WHEN OTHERWISE STATED IN WRITING THE COPYRIGHT HOLDERS AND/OR OTHER PARTIES PROVIDE THE PROGRAM AS IS WITHOUT WARRANTY OF ANY KIND, EITHER EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, THE IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY AND FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. THE ENTIRE RISK AS TO THE QUALITY AND PERFORMANCE OF THE PROGRAM IS WITH YOU. SHOULD THE PROGRAM PROVE DEFECTIVE, YOU ASSUME THE COST OF ALL NECESSARY SERVICING, REPAIR OR CORRECTION.

12. IN NO EVENT UNLESS REQUIRED BY APPLICABLE LAW OR AGREED TO IN WRITING WILL ANY COPYRIGHT HOLDER, OR ANY OTHER PARTY WHO MAY MODIFY AND/OR REDISTRIBUTE THE PROGRAM AS PERMITTED ABOVE, BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR DAMAGES, INCLUDING ANY GENERAL, SPECIAL, INCIDENTAL OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES ARISING

OUT OF THE USE OR INABILITY TO USE THE PROGRAM (INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO LOSS OF DATA OR DATA BEING RENDERED INACCURATE OR LOSSES SUSTAINED BY YOU OR THIRD PARTIES OR A FAILURE OF THE PROGRAM TO OPERATE WITH ANY OTHER PROGRAMS), EVEN IF SUCH HOLDER OR OTHER PARTY HAS BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES.

fsck --- A generic, parallelizing front-end for the fsck program.
It will automatically try to run fsck programs in parallel if the devices are on separate spindles. It is based on the same ideas as the generic front end for fsck by David Engel and Fred van Kempen,
but it has been completely rewritten from scratch to support
parallel execution.

Written by Theodore Ts'o, <tytso@mit.edu>

Miquel van Smoorenburg (miquels@drinkel.ow.org) 20-Oct-1994:
o Changed -t fstype to behave like with mount when -A (all file systems) or -M (like mount) is specified.
o fsck looks if it can find the fsck.type program to decide if it should ignore the fs type. This way more fsck programs can be added without changing this front-end.
o -R flag skip root file system.

COPYRIGHT (C) 1986 Gary S. Brown. You may use this program, or code or tables extracted from it, as desired without restriction.

First, the polynomial itself and its table of feedback terms. The polynomial is
 $X^{32}+X^{26}+X^{23}+X^{22}+X^{16}+X^{12}+X^{11}+X^{10}+X^8+X^7+X^5+X^4+X^2+X^1+X^0$

Note that we take it backwards and put the highest-order term in the lowest-order bit. The X^{32} term is implied; the LSB is the X^{31} term, etc. The X^0 term (usually shown as +1) results in the MSB being 1.

Note that the usual hardware shift register implementation, which is what we're using (we're merely optimizing it by doing eight-bit chunks at a time) shifts bits into the lowest-order term. In our implementation, that means shifting towards the right. Why do we do it this way? Because the calculated CRC must be transmitted in order from highest-order term to lowest-order term. UARTs transmit characters in order from LSB to MSB. By storing the CRC this way, we hand it to the UART in the order low-byte to high-byte; the UART sends each low-bit to high-bit; and the result is transmission bit by bit from highest- to lowest-order term without requiring any bit shuffling on our part. Reception works similarly.

The feedback terms table consists of 256, 32-bit entries. Notes

The table can be generated at runtime if desired; code to do so is shown later. It might not be obvious, but the feedback terms simply represent the results of eight shift/xor operations for all combinations of data and CRC register values.

The values must be right-shifted by eight bits by the updcrc logic; the shift must be unsigned (bring in zeroes). On some hardware you could probably optimize the shift in assembler by using byte-swap instructions.

-- based on mount/losetup.c

Simple library for work with loop devices.

- requires kernel 2.6.x

- reads info from /sys/block/loop<N>/loop/<attr> (new kernels)
- reads info by ioctl
- supports unlimited number of loop devices
- supports /dev/loop<N> as well as /dev/loop/<N>
- minimize overhead (fd, loopinfo, ... are shared for all operations)
- setup (associate device and backing file)
- delete (dis-associate file)
- old LOOP_{SET,GET}_STATUS (32bit) ioctls are unsupported
- extendible

Functions for %oct encoding used in mtab/fstab/swaps/etc.

This code implements the MD5 message-digest algorithm.
The algorithm is due to Ron Rivest. This code was written by Colin Plumb in 1993, no copyright is claimed.
This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc.
This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent,
except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese
with every copy.

To compute the message digest of a chunk of bytes, declare an MD5Context structure, pass it to MD5Init, call MD5Update as needed on buffers full of bytes, and then call MD5Final, which will fill a supplied 16-byte array with the digest.

GPLV3('parse-date.c',)

Simple functions to access files. Paths can be globally prefixed to read data from an alternative source (e.g. a /proc dump for regression tests).

The paths is possible to format by printf-like way for functions with f postfix in the name (e.g. readf, openf, ... ul_path_readf_u64()).

The ul_path_read_* API is possible to use without path_cxt handler. In this case is not possible to use global prefix and printf-like formatting.

No copyright is claimed. This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

Libfdisk sample to create partitions by specify all required partition

(except MBR where 4th partition is extended).

Libfdisk sample to create partitions by specify size, for example:

`mkpart --label dos --device /dev/sdc 2M 2M 2M 10M 1M -`

creates 6 partitions:

- 3 primary (3x 2M)
- 1 extended (1x 10M)
- 2 logical (1x 1M, 1x remaining-space-in-extended-partition)

Notes:

The sample specifies size and partno for MBR, and size only for another
labels (e.g. GPT).

The Ask-API does not use anything else than warning/info. The
partitioning has to be done non-interactive.

The test heavily uses shared memory, to enlarge maximal size of shared segment use:

echo 4294967295 > /proc/sys/kernel/shmm
```

The test is compiled against in-tree libuuid, if you want to test uuid installed to the system then make sure that libuuid uses the same socket like the running uuid. You can start the uuid manually, for example:

uuid --debug --no-fork --no-pid --socket /run/uuid/request

if the $runstatedir (as defined by build-system) is /run. If you want to overwrite the built-in default then use:

make uuid uuidgen runstatedir=/var/run

Semantics:

Setterm writes to standard output a character string that will invoke the specified terminal capabilities. Where possible terminfo is consulted to find the string to use. Some options however do not correspond to a terminfo capability. In this case if the terminal type is con*, or linux* the string that invokes the specified capabilities on the PC Linux virtual console driver is output. Options that are not implemented by the terminal are ignored.

The following options are non-obvious.

-term can be used to override the TERM environment variable.

-reset displays the terminal reset string, which typically resets the terminal to its power on state.

This code is a modified version of crypting code in Infozip distribution

The encryption/decryption parts of this source code (as opposed to the non-echoing password parts) were originally written in Europe. The whole source package can be freely distributed, including from the USA. (Prior to January 2000, re-export from the US was a violation of US law.)

This encryption code is a direct transcription of the algorithm from Roger Schlafly, described by Phil Katz in the file appnote.txt. This file (appnote.txt) is distributed with the PKZIP program (even in the version without encryption capabilities).

If you don't need crypting in your application, just define symbols NOCRYPT and NOUNCRYPT.

This code support the Traditional PKWARE Encryption.

The new AES encryption added on Zip format by Winzip (see the page http //www.winzip.com/aes_info.htm) and PKWare PKZip 5.x Strong Encryption is not supported.

Changes

Oct-2009 - Defined ZPOS64_T to fpos_t on windows and u_int64_t on linux. (might need to find a better why for this)

Oct-2009 - Change to fseeko64, ftello64 and fopen64 so large files would work on linux.

More if/def section may be needed to support other platforms

Oct-2009 - Defined fxxxx64 calls to normal fopen/ftell/fseek so they would compile on windows.

(but you should use iowin32.c for windows instead)
